

Former Westerly Pastor Indicted

For Arson at Wickford Junction—Indictments Also Returned in Wood Alcohol Cases—Watch Hill Life Savers Rescue Schooner's Crew—Case Against Joseph Grills Nolle.

In the superior court at Kingston Wednesday the grand jury returned indictments against Rev. George Adams, formerly pastor of the Church of God and Saints of Christ, in Westerly, for arson at Wickford Junction. Also against Alfred Carlson of Westerly for maintaining a liquor nuisance, and against William Stinson on a like charge. Also against John Di Ponti of Charleston and John and Caterino Cicco of Westerly for manslaughter in connection with the wood alcohol cases. The same parties are charged with maintaining liquor nuisances. The cases are assigned for trial Monday.

Schooner J. M. Harlow, lumber laden, from New Bedford for Sag Harbor, struck on a ledge off Watch Hill just before midnight Wednesday and was wedged firmly in the rocks. Capt. Walter F. Davis and crew of the Watch Hill life saving station rescued the crew. Capt. C. P. Lund of the schooner sent for assistance of the Scott Wrecking company. The cargo will be lightered and it is believed the schooner will be hauled off before morning and towed to New London for repairs.

Local Laconics.

Rev. Dr. George W. Rieger of Westerly spoke on Rhode Island, Pioneer of Seal Liberty, at the two hundredth anniversary of the Baptist church in Waterford Wednesday.

The case in the New London police court against Joseph S. Grills of Westerly has been nolle. Grills was accused of obtaining money under false pretenses from John Babruno. He made satisfactory settlement with Babruno and the case was dropped.

GRANGE FAIR

AT NORTH STONINGTON.

First Annual Opens With Big Crowd Attending.

The first day of the county fair at North Stonington, under the auspices of the North Stonington Grange, opened Wednesday morning with beautiful weather in its favor and hundreds of people gathered on the grounds. The fair is much larger than the general public had expected to see, and the first day was an astounding success in every way. An even better crowd is expected today, which will be the big day.

Nearly all the exhibits are in tents and they are arranged around the edge of the big field so that there is ample room in the center for the crowd to wander about. A large tent occupies the center of the field, which contains displays of fancy work, drawn work, home made pieces of sewing of all descriptions, the art exhibit and the flowers.

An article which attracts much attention is a quilt made by Mrs. John O. Avery of North Stonington, a woman aged 78 years. The quilt is made up of 4107 pieces of silk. Another quilt contains 11,664 pieces of silk and was made by Grace D. Wheeler. It is a wonderful piece of work. Mrs. H. C. Greene and F. Stewart Greene have a fine art display in this tent, occupying one end.

As you enter the grounds, to the right the first tent to attract your attention is the one containing the poultry. Raymond Brown is in charge. Just beyond this tent on the outside is an exhibit of thoroughbred dogs and cats.

The display of pumpkins, squashes, potatoes, corn, onions, etc., is something grand, and what is more interesting is that they are all home products. The exhibit of fruit, especially the apples, pears and peaches, is more than tempting to the observers.

The domestic tent is interesting to many. There is a fine display of butter, honey, jelly, etc., all products of North Stonington and the surrounding country.

The exhibit of livestock is superior to the larger fairs. There were over 300 head of cattle on exhibition and included in them are many prize winners at other fairs.

There are about 25 head of horses, as many sheep, pigs and other livestock on the grounds.

Seven pieces of the Westerly band occupy a stand directly in front of the entrance and they furnish music all day. The judging commenced in the afternoon and the prizes will be known today. The judges are: Poultry, W. O. Rogers, Edwin D. Price, H. Len Chapman; cows and heifers, William P. Browning; horses, James Brown, Benjamin Arnold; other animals, J. M. Jenkins, T. A. Mitten; fruit and vegetables, William P. Browning.

Several interesting field sports were run off under the direction of Wilbur Main, who was active during the day with his megaphone, assisting materially in the successful management of the fair. He was assisted by William D. Cameron, who served as mounted bugler.

There were eight small boy contestants in the shoe race, which consisted of a run of 20 yards and return to the start, take off shoes and throw them in a promiscuous pile, then run the same distance and return with shoes and run to the finish of the course. Ralph Main was first, George Kendall second and Michael Harrington third.

In the 100 yard race for boys under 12 Edward Butler and Carroll Hollister ran a dead heat. In the run-off Butler was first and Hollister second.

The three-legged race was won by Leon Richmond and Ralph Main. The final event was a race of 225 yards for young men from 17 to 20. George Prindle was first, Richard Butler second and Varian York third.

The judging and awarding of premiums will be announced today.

SOCIAL CENTERS.

New Work to Be Taken up in Waterbury This Fall.

Miss Alice Hills, who was the director at the Waterbury Charities playgrounds on South Main street all summer, will arrive in a day or two to take up work of forming "social centers" in Waterbury, a movement that has only been recently started in several of the larger cities of the country and is already having phenomenal success. The basement of the Clay street school has been secured for the purpose of giving the matter a trial in this city and it is not unlikely that after it has been organized here a short time other schools will take up the movement.

The entire basement will not be given over to the girls alone, however, but it is very likely that it will be divided so that the boys can use one portion.

Howard L. Udell, manager of the Associated Charities association, after witnessing the good work done on the playgrounds during the summer by Miss Hills and how interested the boys and girls were in things being done for them, conceived the plan of finding some place where they could meet and keep up the clubs they had formed.

The girls' club consists of about seventy-five members and is fully constituted, with officers, rules and by-laws, and the boys' club is about the same size. While they were on the playgrounds they were taught many things, including games, exercises for physical development, folk dancing, deportment and politeness. They also learned elocution. Their closing exercises showed all they had learned and Miss Hills received many compliments upon the excellent manner in which the children went through every part of the programme. The boys also did remarkably well and they are also to be provided for in the new movement.—Waterbury Republican.

Transferred to New York.

Father Christmas, who has been one of the assistants at St. Mary's church, New Haven, has been transferred to St. Vincent Ferrer's church, Lexington, New York, in place of Father Christmas, who has been transferred to New Haven. A French speaking priest was needed at St. Vincent Ferrer's church, and Father Christmas was transferred there on that account.

Opposed to Unlicensed Peddlers.

Torrington men went before the borough board last week with a petition from business men of Torrington for an ordinance licensing hucksters and peddlers from outside the county. The borough at the present time does not charge peddlers a license fee as is permissible by statute.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Baltimore (Vt.) Heard From.

Mr. Editor: Your clipping in today's issue from the Rutland News, referring to the statesman from Glantonbury, Vermont, who received the unanimous endorsement of the voters of his town, is of interest, but later advices show that Glantonbury is not in it with Baltimore, Windsor county, Vermont. After the voters had deposited their ballots, and the tellers had counted the votes, it was found that O. Converse had received the total vote, four, of the town of Baltimore, and was declared duly elected as representative from Baltimore. Whether O. Converse achieved this remarkable result by the power of his persuasive tongue, as his name would seem to indicate, or whether corrupt practices were indulged in to get out the vote, the Vermont Standard does not say.

Connecticut has nothing on Vermont when it comes to a question of ridiculous schemes of town representation, when the notorious town, Union, Tolland county, with only 60 votes, elects as many representatives as New Haven, with 22,000, and the population of Union is steadily decreasing at that. And, by the way, is Norwich ever detailed to in conventions by Ledyard and Preston? Beware of glass houses.

EDWARD PERKINS, CLARE, Mystic, Conn., Sept. 20, 1910.

MILNER SCHOLARSHIP

Won by William E. Burns of William.

William H. Burns, who was graduated from the High school last June, has been made one of the beneficiaries of the Plainfield scholarship fund by the bureau of appointment at Yale university. The Plainfield scholarship fund was established in 1907 by Edward Milner of Plainfield, by a gift of 250 shares of the capital stock of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company. The income of this fund is used in helping worthy students from the county of Windham, preference being given to students from Plainfield, in securing an education in any department of Yale university. A scholarship of $500 is given each year to a student then entering, and may be held four years.

New Haven.—Minott A. Osborn has returned from a trip to Europe and is at the home of his parents, Col. and Mrs. N. G. Osborn. About Oct. 1 Mr. Osborn will leave for Baltimore to resume his duties as one of the masters at The Country School, near that city.
